

Where is Pluto?

illustrated by
Mervat Al-Beltagi

Pluto is gone!

The Sun must find him.

It is too hot for Pluto out the front
here with Mercury.

Venus has not seen him
shoot by in a while.

Earth has a lot on.

It did not see that Pluto had left.

Mars has eyes like a hawk.

He thinks Pluto hangs out at the back.

They ask their pal with his
fawn stripes and red spot, Jupiter. No go.

Saturn says that she
tried to cheer him up
when she saw him last.

Uranus said Pluto
was sad when he saw him as well.

They get out to Neptune.

He said that Pluto bawls a lot these days.

The people on Earth said
they had to draw the line.

Pluto is no longer a planet.

The Sun has a chat
to him. She says that Pluto has a big heart
and is a good pal.

The Sun tells him that,
planet or not, he will always be in their group.
