

Name: _____

Date: _____

Geography of Africa and the British Isles

Africa is the second largest continent in the world. It has many different countries, deserts like the Sahara, and big rivers such as the Nile. The British Isles are a group of islands in the northwest of Europe. They include Great Britain and Ireland. Both Africa and the British Isles have many people, different languages, and beautiful places to visit.

What is the name of the biggest desert in Africa? _____

Where are the British Isles located? _____

Name one thing that Africa and the British Isles have in common. _____

